THAT as it has always been a source of serious regret with me to see the youth of these United States sent to foreign countries for the purpose of education, often before their minds were formed or they had imbibed any adequate ideas of the happiness of their own, contracting too frequently not only habits of dissipation and extravagance, but principles unfriendly to Republican Government and to the true and genuine liberties of mankind, it has been my ardent wish to see a plan devised on a liberal scale which would have a tendency to spread thereby to do away local attachments and State prejudices as far as the nature of things would, or indeed ought to admit, from our national councils—looking anxiously forward to the accomplishment of so desirable an object as this is, (in my estimation) my mind has not been able to contemplate any plan more likely to effect the measure than the establishment of a University in a central part of the United States to which the youths of fortune and talents from all parts thereof might be sent for the completion of their education in all branches of polite literature in arts and sciences—in acquiring knowledge in the principles of Politics and good Government—and (as a matter of infinite importance in my judgment) by associating with each other and forming friendships in Juvenile years, enabled to free themselves in a proper degree from just Local prejudices and habitual jealousies which have been mentioned and which when carried to excess, are never failing sources of disquietude to the community. Under these impressions so fully dilated which are pregnant in perpetuity the fit and proper measure and bequeath in perpetuity the fit and proper measure in the Potomac Company (under the endowment of the University to be established within the limits of the District of Columbia, under the auspices of the General Government if that Government should incline to extend a fostering hand towards it—

Excerpt from George Washington's will.

Beginning as

COLUMBIAN COLLEGE

The First University Building

In 1790 George Washington, in a message to Congress, treated the subject of a national educational system and a national university. In his will he left fifty shares in the Potomac Company, then having a par value of $22,200, for such a university if the government should see fit to sponsor its installation.

The founding of a college in the City of Washington was brought about, however, by Luther Rice, a Baptist clergyman, who in 1819 collected $7,000 to buy forty-seven acres of land along Fourteenth Street, now Florida Avenue, to Columbia Road, which was considered at that period a central location.

The corporate existence of the college dates from February 9, 1821, when President Monroe approved an Act of Congress chartering the Columbian College in the District of Columbia. Construction of the building was begun in 1820, and by January of 1822 the college was ready to begin regular sessions, with a total of 39 students attending.

William Staughton was chosen president of the College. Present on December 15, 1824, for the commencement of the first three graduating students were President Monroe, Secretary of State John Q. Adams, Secretary of War John C. Calhoun, Speaker of the House Henry Clay, and General LaFayette.

As early as 1821 a medical school was proposed. By 1825, under the direction of Dr. Thomas Sewall, this school began in a building erected by the professors. The first course consisted of two terms of five months each. After 1844, classes were held in the United States Infirmary. A Preparatory School was one of the first schools established for the preparation of students entering college. The building for it became part of the University Hospital when the Preparatory School was discontinued in 1897.

The Law School was founded in 1826 but financial difficulties forced it to close after a year and it was not reopened until 1865 when classes were held in the Columbian Law Building on Fifth Street. This was the oldest law school in the city and the first in the country to confer the degree of LL.M.

There was a long financial struggle, but at the outbreak of the Civil War the number of students was greater than any previous enrollment. Even when the college buildings were used by the Government for a hospital, classes were not suspended.

In 1865, William W. Corcoran presented to the college a building on H Street for the Medical School and later gave financial assistance toward the new college building at Fifteenth and H Streets. By an Act of Congress, the Columbian College was renamed "The Columbian University" in 1873, and in 1879 the college officials decided to remove all departments of the University to the heart of Washington. The academic, legal, and scientific schools moved in 1884 from the former site on College Hill to the new four-story building on H Street containing lecture halls, a museum, a library, the president's office, and professors' studies. The chemistry laboratory was housed in a separate building at the back of the lot.

The School of Pharmacy, inaugurated in 1872, eventually settled on property acquired at 808 F Street, and the Dental School, organized in 1887, was housed with the Medical School. The University Hospital and a new medical building at 1335 H Street became necessary at the turn of the century when the former facilities were outgrown. Also, about this time the College of Engineering developed from the Corcoran Scientific School of the University.

For several years the University received help from the Baptist Convention, but in 1904 the University received its present title, "The George Washington University" and was made denominational by Act of Congress. The buildings at Fifteenth and H were completely outgrown. Reorganization followed, resulting in the sale of the former property and the removal of the school to the historic section of Hamburg. On F Street the college first occupied several historical homes. Abram Lisner donated the property and house where the Library now stands. Another of the old homes which became the property of the University was the Woodhull House which served as the President's Office and is now known as Columbian House. At the University Centennial Celebration the French Government presented to The George Washington University a captured German cannon, which stood for many years in the grounds of the Woodhull Administration Building. Many of these older buildings were removed to make room for the construction of the present university buildings.

By 1925 the colonial style Corcoran and Stockton Halls were completed for the use of the physical sciences and the Law School. Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, who became President of The George Washington University in 1927, has done much to further the growth of the University. Evidences of expansion are the acquisition of Lisner Auditorium, the social science and biology buildings, the Hall of Government, and Strong Hall, a residence for women, as well as the greatly increased endowment and the rise in enrollment. Most recent additions to the University have been the health administration building, the building for a Student Union, the dormitory for nurses, and the new Hospital.

New acquisitions and advances have now extended the University to proportions far beyond the dreams of our first President, for whom it is so rightly named.

Abram Lisner

DEDICATION

We dedicate this book in memory of Abram Lisner. Mr. Lisner, who became a member of the Board of Trustees in 1909, served the University in this capacity for twenty-seven years. In 1918 The George Washington University bestowed on him an honorary M.A. degree. As one of the first contributors in the movement of expanding the University, he gave the house and property where the Library now stands. The Library, erected in 1939, was presented in memory of his wife, Laura Lisner. Mr. Lisner's interest in the University and in helping youth extended beyond his lifetime. In his will he left provisions for the construction of Lisner Auditorium, one of the finest in the country. For his generosity and lasting services to the University, we are truly grateful to Mr. Lisner.

Pi Lambda Theta is a national honorary fraternity for women in education which seeks to uphold high standards in scholarship and preparation and to apply the principles of democratic education to local, national, and international problems.

Community interest in education is furthered by lecture programs. A special memorial service was held recently to honor the late Dr. William Carl Ruediger.

This year Alpha Theta Chapter centered its interests on the theme "Educational Rehabilitation Around the World," and actual aid was sent abroad as part of the program. Another project was the annual award for the best master's thesis in education presented at class night exercises.

Other chapter activities included a summer picnic, teas, two initiation luncheons, and a joint dinner meeting with Phi Delta Kappa.

Since its foundation at Washington and Lee University in 1914, Omicron Delta Kappa honorary fraternity for men has grown to a total of 54 chapters and 14,000 members.

Alpha Delta Circle was established at the George Washington University in 1929. Both students and members of the faculty are included in its membership.

By its selection of members, Omicron Delta Kappa recognizes men who have attained a high standard of efficiency in collegiate activities. In so doing, it brings together men representing all phases of collegiate life and thus creates an organization which can help to mold the sentiment of the institution on questions of local and intercollegiate interest. It also succeeds in uniting faculty members and students on a basis of mutual interest and understanding.

Hour Glass Chapter of Mortar Board celebrated its tenth anniversary this year at a breakfast given during Homecoming Week. Its seven members, chosen for leadership, scholarship, and service to the University, also gave a tea for new women students and maintained an information booth during registration. In December, the Mortar Boards, at a Smarty Party honoring senior and junior women with 3.00 averages, decorated a Christmas tree in Columbian House. In the spring, they held their annual career conference, enabling all women at the University to hear the outstanding career women who were guest speakers.

Encouraged by the success of Tassels, sophomore women's honorary formed the previous year for the recognition of scholarship and participation in activities, Mortar Board organized this year's group of 44. The sophomores worked on a project of sending CARE packages to Europe.

Tassels members tapped in the fall

D E L P H I

After three years of inactivity, Delphi resumed an active role in campus life last fall. Two outstanding members of each sorority are elected to Delphi, and they work to bring together all the sororities on a purely social basis.

Last spring Delphi closed the social season by sponsoring a picnic. When the fall term began, it relieved the Panhellenic Council of some of its responsibilities by sponsoring various get-togethers throughout the year. One of the most successful was a series of dessert parties held on Monday evenings last fall. Each week three sororities served as hostesses for all the others.

In the spring new members were tapped at the Panhellenic Prom, and initiation ceremonies were held soon afterward. With such a fine start, Delphi's future looks bright.

Gate and Key is an honorary men's fraternity unique to The George Washington University campus. Designed to promote and strengthen good interfraternity relations, its membership is chosen from among the outstanding members of the social fraternities. Those men who have been most active in forwarding the standards, ideals, and welfare of their respective fraternities are allied in Gate and Key as representatives of the fraternity system as a whole on the campus.

Gate and Key, dormant during the war, was revived in 1946-47, and this year became constructively active. Its members are promoting closer interfraternity coordination and supporting such projects as better freshman orientation, livelier school spirit, and stronger student support of all-University life.

Pi Gamma Mu was founded at Southwestern College in 1924 as a national honorary society for the social sciences. Students are elected annually in recognition of outstanding work in history, political science, economics, and composite fields. The District of Columbia Beta Chapter was organized on the George Washington University campus in 1930.

The specific purpose of this society is to send out from colleges and universities young men and women trained in scientific thought and imbued with social idealism. By the time the members of Pi Gamma Mu leave school, they are qualified to help others to be scientific in their thinking on social questions.

With the reorganization of the University Band, Alpha Kappa Chapter of Kappa Kappa Psi, national honorary fraternity for college bandmen, came back to life this year after several years of inactivity.

The fraternity, founded at Oklahoma A. and M. College in 1919, has since expanded to 50 chapters. It promotes the welfare of college bands and cultivates respect for their activities. Membership is conferred as an award for technical achievement and music appreciation.

This year Alpha Kappa Chapter initiated several men selected from the band of the previous year and pledged others from the 1947-1948 band. The chapter functioned throughout the year as a service unit for the band and presented its annual award of a cup to the outstanding musician of the band.

Student Council sponsored Book Exchange

C O U N C I L

The Student Council is the elected governing board for campus affairs. Its most important functions are the coordination of such activities as social events, educational programs, and charity drives, and the allotment of funds to student organizations which it supervises.

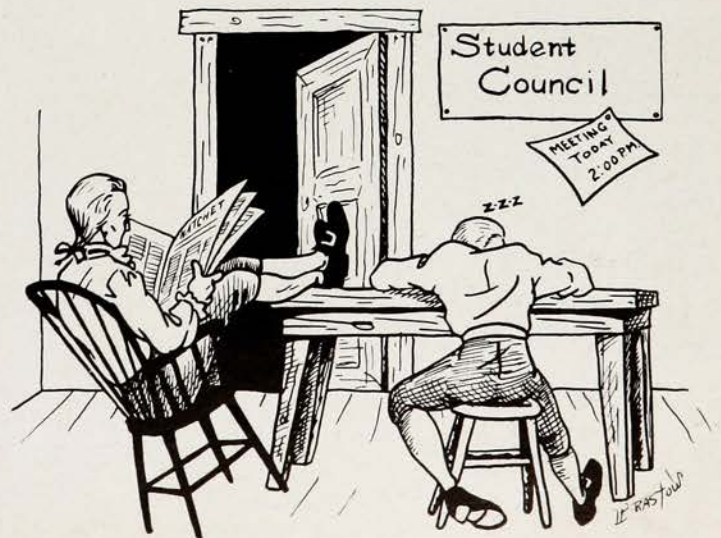

This year's council conducted a series of informal dances, presented movies and forums, made plans for the forthcoming Student Union Building, and wrestled with a formidable array of student problems.

Many of the Council's appointees did outstanding jobs this year. The Book Exchange was reestablished as a going concern, the University Handbook was a credit to its authors, and the Homecoming Committee arranged a memorable weekend.

First Row: R. Atwell, J. Ferguson, V. Kirkbride, B. Leslie, M. Sewell. Second Row: C. Linton, F. Jewell, B. Jarman, M. Farrington, D. Johnson.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

The Panhellenic Council is the body which coordinates activities of the campus sororities, each of which is represented by two delegates. Its main function is the compilation of rules governing rushing, pledging, and initiations. The Council also acts as a forum for discussion of questions affecting students in general and sorority members in particular.

Sponsored annually by the Council are the Panhellenic Prom and the Panhellenic Sing. In addition, the Council now conducts an annual Panhellenic Workshop inaugurated in the spring of 1947, which provides sorority officers with expert advice on their particular problems.

Besides its other projects, the Council supervises the activities of Junior Panhellenic and supports it in the presentation of such events as the annual Goat Show.

The Junior Panhellenic Council is composed of one representative from each sorority pledge class on campus. Working in cooperation with Senior Panhellenic, it seeks to coordinate pledge activities and to insure intersorority unity among the future actives.

Early in the fall, the Council, aided by the Inter-fraternity Pledge Council delegates, staged its annual tea dance. In December miniature goats on coat lapels heralded Junior Panhellenic's biggest event of the year—the Goat Show in Lisner Auditorium. Enthusiastic applause recorded the success of the original skits presented by each pledge class, and the winner's cup was awarded to Phi Sigma Sigma.

The Interfraternity Council promotes better relations between the campus fraternities and supervises their actions. It is also authorized to pass on the recognition of new fraternities.

Several social functions are sponsored by the Council. At the beginning of the year, a Rush Smoker is held to introduce rushees to the fraternity system. The Interfraternity Sing is a popular annual attraction.

This year two new events were inaugurated. An Interfraternity Debate was organized, and in the spring, the IFC sponsored a Greek Week, highlighted by the Interfraternity Prom.

The interfraternity sports program, directed by the Council, includes football, basketball, softball, bowling, ping pong, and volley ball.

Each year the IFC presents the Scholarship Award to the fraternity with the highest scholastic average.

In its second post-war year, the Inter-fraternity Pledge Council has, through various activities, done much to promote friendship and cooperation among the social fraternities. An outstanding example was the long-awaited annual smoker, which was held in January. The skits which the pledge classes of the various fraternities presented lived up to all expectations. On the administrative side, the Council worked hard on revision of its own constitution.

The Engineers' Council, composed of representatives from the engineering societies and fraternities, acts as a coordinating body to further cooperation among its member organizations and to promote fellowship among the students of the School of Engineering.

The peaks of its activities last year were the Engineers' Ball, the Engineers' Banquet, the annual Christmas Tree, and MECHELECIV. The Council also sponsored joint meetings of the engineering societies and mixer meetings for new students.

The Religious Council, under the guidance of Dr. L. D. Folkemer, who heads the George Washington Department of Religion, has sponsored an ambitious program of weekly chapel services and luncheons for the entire students body, timely lectures by well-known clergymen, and numerous forums and panel discussions. These activities have done much to further the Council's aim of integrating the member groups, and of facilitating the growth of fellowship and religious unity on campus.

The function of the University Committee on Publications is to coordinate, advise, and encourage student campus publications. Its chief concern is with the administrative organization of those groups; it makes recommendations to the President of the University concerning constitutions and editorial appointments. It also considers requests for approval of new publications. The Committee is composed of seven members: two faculty representatives, two students, two alumni, and the University Comptroller.

To promote a friendly spirit of cooperation and competition among the sororities represented on campus, the Inter-SorORITY Athletic Board has as its chief function the organization and staging of athletic tournaments for its members.

The Board, composed of one delegate and two alternates from each sorority, sponsors a series of competitive contests throughout the year, and at the completion of its schedule awards a trophy cup to the sorority winning the greatest number of events.

This season began with a volley ball tournament, and competitions in bowling, badminton, deck tennis, ping pong, swimming, and archery took place through the rest of the school year.

Although during the maddening hours of getting ready and going to press, the members of The Hatchet staff may resemble cases in the abnormal psychology text, they're not really crazy. The bedlam is just a part of the publication psychosis.

However, if you think the office is confusion personified, you ought to visit Mercury Press, where the actual printing is done. There the staff has to compete with machines!

For over half a century the same confusion has been going on while students published the University paper. In spite of it or because of it, last year the Pacemaker Award of the Associated Collegiate Press was bestowed upon The Hatchet for the fourth time.

Work on The Hatchet is fun, and the experience of writing and reporting and being a part of the paper makes it one of the most varied and interesting extra-curricular activities on campus.

Here's how it happened:

Mary Olga was editor-in-chief. She kept things going by clenching her fists and screaming "E-e-ek". When this didn't work, she called Joy.

Joy is a three letter word for a person who does everything the editor is too busy for, plus all that the staff can't handle but doesn't want to bother the ed with.

Randy spent the year trying to find out what people were paying him for, while Johnny invited all the girls to visit his darkroom and see what developed, and told the fellows to "drop dead."

A horde of characters called Ann, Anne, Brandy, Leigh, Cammy, Jerry-Peggy, Allen, and worse, kept the office in confusion. Some got pictures out of order, others hid contracts, and the rest stole typewriters from the HATCHET. Meanwhile a year-old gremlin named George put out the book. He hopes you like it.

1947-48 witnessed the auspicious arrival of the University's first student literary magazine in years. Behind the appearance of The Surveyor lay a year and a half of difficult but exciting planning and organizing.

The editors and staff of the magazine felt that a mature literary magazine was in great demand at the University. With this in mind, they worked hard to collect material, find advertisers, printers and engravers, and organize an attractive and readable first issue.

Their initial effort was enthusiastically received by students and faculty alike. A wide range of student-produced literature, humor, and art gave the magazine a varied appeal and ensured its success. Subsequent issues fulfilled the promise of the first and established The Surveyor as a permanent asset to University life.

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON LAW REVIEW is published quarterly. Its staff is made up of students in the Law School who work in cooperation with a group of faculty editors and advisors. Besides students and faculty members, contributors include many lawyers in government and private practice. The most important types of articles carried by the LAW REVIEW are reviews of recent cases in the Supreme Court and other federal courts, and discussions of current legal problems.

The monthly magazine of the School of Engineering is published by the MECHELECIV staff in coordination with the Engineers' Council. It has now completed seven years of publication, during which it evolved from a mimeographed sheet to a printed magazine. The striking name was coined from abbreviations of three branches of engineering—mechanical, electrical, and civil. The magazine's chief purpose is to acquaint the engineering students with organizations, leaders, and new developments in his field.

Practice gets results

Under an increasing demand from many Washington organizations, the University Glee Clubs are necessarily organized on a flexible basis. The Men's Club and the Women's Club each elect their own officers and often perform independently. However, the two sets of officers maintain close cooperation, joint rehearsals are held, and the groups often sing as a unit in major concerts.

1947-48 has been one of the busiest and most successful years in the history of the Glee Clubs. The concert season began last fall when the combined clubs appeared before the national convention of the American Automobile Association. The Men's Club followed this with an engagement at a girl's school in Chevy Chase. The Christmas concert in Lisner Auditorium was transcribed and broadcast on Christmas Eve by a local radio station. In all their appearances, climaxed by the annual concert and dance this spring, the clubs were enthusiastically received.

In the course of the year, members found that faithful attendance and hard work in weekly rehearsals was well rewarded in lasting friendships and the generous applause of their audiences.

With plans for a bigger and better year, the 1947-48 University Band got off to a good start under Director Leon Brusiloff by increasing its membership to eighty, twice that of the previous year.

The band performed at freshman orientation programs, pep rallies, and home football and basketball games. During the second semester, several concerts were presented, featuring the music of modern composers. The band's season was climaxed by the annual spring concert in Lisner Auditorium.

Highlighting the social activities was the annual banquet held in May. Band sweaters and certificates for one year's service were awarded, as well as a cup which went to the most valuable member of the organization. In addition, several members were tapped for Kappa Kappa Psi, national honorary fraternity for college bandmen.

Reorganized as the University Players, the campus dramatic group this year enjoyed a successful season under two new directors. Texan Edward Mangum came to the University from the Mount Vernon Players, whom he had directed for eleven years, and he was joined by Dr. Natalie E. White, a graduate of the University and of Yale.

"The Fan", an eighteenth century comedy by Carlo Goldoni, was the Players' first production.

Directed by Mr. Mangum, it scored an immediate success.

The second of the season's three plays was Aeschylus' tragedy "Agamemnon", especially translated for the Players by Edith Hamilton and directed by Dr. White.

Beside offering three top-notch entertainments, the dramatic group gave its members valuable training in acting, make-up, costuming, set design and construction, lighting, publicity, and box office management.

Candida and Evaristo are reconciled in the last act of "The Fan."

Student Veterans of World War II, more commonly known as the Veterans Club, was founded in October, 1943, by a group of seventeen veterans, primarily for the purpose of helping veterans with the problems of adjustment from service to campus life. It claims the distinction of being the oldest organization in the United States composed entirely of veterans of World War II.

One of the most important services provided members of the organization this year was free tutoring by the Educational Committee. Socially, the second annual moonlight cruise took place last fall, and a schedule of parties and dances continued throughout the year.

Oquassa's girls take formation

In the spring of 1946, Miss Dennis, swimming instructor at the University, and Virginia Myers decided that there was a definite need for an organized swimming club to learn synchronized and ballet swimming. In the fall of 1946 tryouts were held to choose the charter members of Oquassa, with the main qualification being a definite interest in the club. After months of hard work, the Oquassas presented their first water show in April of 1947. The warm reception spurred the club to give several exhibitions demonstrating the techniques of swimming and stunts. This fall at tryouts the membership tripled.

The group celebrated its first birthday with a party at Miss Dennis' apartment. This April the annual water show consisted of large group formations and duets and trios, making the Aquacade the grand finale for a year of work.

Alpha Chapter of Phi Pi Epsilon was founded at the George Washington University in 1931. It fulfilled the increasing demand for a fraternal organization to foster and sustain an interest in international affairs among University women.

The sorority sponsors a wide variety of informative programs dealing not only with the current developments in foreign affairs, but also with opportunities for women to find careers in the foreign service and related fields.

Thirty pledges were added to the chapter this year from the fields of foreign affairs, economics, political science, and law.

Two outstanding meetings highlighted the fall term. At the first, Miss Rowene Brooks, of the Division of Foreign Service Personnel, discussed "Opportunities for Women in the Foreign Service". Later, at a joint meeting with Delta Phi Epsilon, Dr. H. F. Schoenfeld, former minister to Hungary, spoke of post-war problems there.

In January, the pledges arranged a tea at which the sorority heard a speaker from the Chinese Embassy.

In addition to maintaining their own busy schedule, the members took time out to help decorate the new Delta Phi Epsilon house.

Delta Phi Epsilon, the first professional foreign service fraternity, was established in 1919 for the purposes of fostering interest in foreign service and foreign commerce, and of bringing men in these fields into close social and intellectual contact.

Eta Chapter this year carried out an extensive program of expansion and development, made possible by the tremendous increase in the number of students enrolled in the Foreign Affairs curriculum of the School of Government. The acquisition of a house made Delta Phi Epsilon the only professional fraternity on the George Washington campus able to claim the distinction of such a location for meetings, study, and discussion. Throughout the school year the fraternity arranged a series of speaker programs to stimulate and encourage interest in matters pertaining to foreign service. Experts in various fields of international affairs discussed topics of vital interest to members of the group.

Delta Phi Epsilon looks confidently to the future, aware that the position that the United States now holds in the affairs of the world makes the existence of organizations of its type indispensable.

Alpha Chi Sigma is a national professional chemistry fraternity whose members include both professional chemists and undergraduates. Since its foundation at the University of Wisconsin in 1902, it has grown to 47 chapters. Alpha Pi was installed at The George Washington University in 1926.

The fraternity's chief aim is to advance chemistry as a science and as a profession. It also makes possible closer association among chemists and assists its members to succeed in their field.

Alpha Chi Sigma sponsors the Pure Chemistry Award, which is presented annually through the American Chemical Society to the person who has contributed the most outstanding achievement to pure chemistry.

Alpha Pi Chapter encourages scholarship by presenting the Handbook of Chemistry and Physics to the three highest-ranking freshman chemistry students each year.

In the meetings of the chapter, members discuss new developments and problems in chemistry. Safety precautions receive frequent attention.

This year the members of Alpha Pi conducted a tutoring service for the benefit of those freshmen and other students experiencing difficulty with college chemistry.

Alpha Kappa Psi professional fraternity was founded at New York University in 1904. The goal envisioned by its founders was the development of a close fellowship and understanding among men possessing similar interest in the fields of accounts, finance, economics, and foreign commerce.

Beta Mu Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi has successfully promoted the attainment of this goal since its installation on the George Washington University campus in 1933. Each succeeding year has contributed to the development of a varied and interesting program of activities.

At meetings during the past year, leaders in business and the federal government have led discussions on topics of current interest to members of the group. Various social events rounded out the fraternity's schedule.

Alpha Kappa Psi encourages scholastic achievement by its annual award of a scholarship medallion. This award is presented to the student who has completed 90 semester hours with the highest average grade in courses leading to degrees in accounting, business administration, economics, foreign commerce, and public finance.

The Radio Workshop was formed in August, 1947, to provide practical experience for students interested in radio acting, writing, management, production, direction, and public relations, and also to provide broadcasting service to the George Washington University campus. The Workshop now has about 75 members.

Late in the summer, members polled the University campus to determine student program preferences. When the fall term began, the group obtained the support of the Speech Department.

Two programs were presented in the fall. "The Shawl", set during Lincoln's presidency, was the first, and was followed at Thanksgiving by "Let's Talk Turkey."

At the regular meetings, the group was addressed by prominent local radio engineers and station managers. A sound library was started, and at various times programs of records and announcements were presented in the Student Club.

Seated: J. Johnson, R. George, N. Brooks. Standing: M. Smith, R. Weinstein, D. Kreuger, J. LeReche.

The Workshop plans to continue its expansion next year. Both its members and campus electrical engineers are interested in the construction of a radio station here which could join the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System.

In 1894, Miss Mary Charlotte Priest established an institution through which women students could keep in touch with the University after graduation. They declared their aim to be "the advancement of women by founding for them scholarships in various departments of the University, and by all other means, and also by the promotion of the interests of the University."

In the fifty-four years since then, The Columbian Women of The George Washington University have worked to fulfill the high purpose set forth by the society's founders. Their most important activity is the granting of scholarships. Half of the amount paid in dues each year is placed in a scholarship fund, which is augmented by the proceeds of an annual benefit. The permanent scholarship fund now amounts to over $20,000.

The society of The Columbian Women of The George Washington University offers membership to alumnae, to students, to faculty women and wives of faculty members, to trustees and officers of the University, and to recipients of honorary degrees.

To provide Christian training and fellowship for its students at The George Washington University, the Presbyterian Church in 1942 organized the Westminster Foundation for the National Capital Area.

Meetings each Tuesday night in the Fellowship Hall of the Western Presbyterian Church provide a well-rounded program of spiritual, intellectual, and social activities. Our Christian and democratic heritage is stressed in addresses by noted speakers and in student forums.

The last meeting of each month is a big party. Provided with a well-equipped social hall, the club is able to make these parties rare moments of fun and fellowship. When the weather has permitted, hikes, treasure hunts, beach parties, and many other enjoyable events have been held.

The most inspiring events of the program of Westminster are the weekend fellowship retreats held each spring and fall. At these retreats, besides enjoying many forms of recreation and plenty of good food, students learn more of the Christ and the Christian faith. These gatherings strike the keynote of the ever-expanding program of which Westminster is rightly proud.

The Newman Club, which fosters spiritual, intellectual, and social interests for Catholic students, is a member of the Newman Club Federation and the Province of the Federation of Washington, D. C.

Due to overcrowded conditions at the University, the Newmanites acquired as an off-campus clubhouse a three-story building for the more than 1500 Catholics at the University. The building, located at 714 N Street, N. W., will be used until a house can be obtained near the campus. The new location enables the Newman Club to offer nightly meetings and lectures to accommodate Catholics who, because of their schedules, formerly found it difficult to participate in Catholic activities at the University. Improved recreation facilities were also made available by the new clubhouse.

Monthly Communion Mass is held on the first Sunday of each month at St. Stephen's Church, 25th and Pennsylvania Avenue, N. W.

THE COACHES
Roger Antaya, J. Neil (Skip) Stahley, Al Sadusky.

After beginning his tenure with a highly successful 1946 team, Coach "Skip" Stahley this year witnessed a prolonged seven game losing streak, a tie, and final victorious game.

Injuries proved to be the leading difficulty. One needs only to review the statistics to realize that Stahley was on several occasions barely able to field one team not hampered with playing disabilities.

The Virginia team placed the opening blemish on the record by administering a 33-13 defeat. The following week the not too formidable VMI team gave the Colonials a 13-7 defeat, as unusually ineffective officiating ruled a Keydet touchdown on a simultaneous catch with less than ten seconds to play. Washington and Lee next took the measure of the Buff on a "super-saturated" field in Lexington, resulting in a 15-6 victory for the Generals. All-American Carl Butkus provided the thrill of the year when he intercepted a wayward pass and sped fifty yards to a touchdown.

In their first home contest, the Colonials were again sadly outclassed as the surging Deacons of Wake Forest went home with a 39-7 victory. The team then entrained for Miami, where the Colonials suffered a 28-7 defeat. High hopes for a homecoming game victory were dissipated when VPI scored on the first play from scrimmage and then went on to hand the host team their most severe trouncing of the year, a decisive 42-6 defeat. At Detroit the following week the perfect record of the Colonials went untainted as Wayne University emerged victorious in a 7-6 contest.

University supporters had their high thrill the next week when they battled a highly favored Georgetown eleven to a scoreless tie, missing the winning tally in the final quarter when Frank Cavallo was dropped on the Georgetown sixteen yard line after a 73 yard run from scrimmage. Then the Blue team took away their first win of the season as they soundly trounced the Kings Point Mariners by a 39-13 score.

Virginia and G. W. men await results

Apparently determined to outdo their splendid record of the 1946-47 campaign, when they emerged victorious in twenty-three of twenty-eight contests, this year's Colonial basketball team compiled a meritorious record of fifteen wins in their first eighteen contests. North Carolina State became the first team to defeat this year's high-scoring Blues when they snapped an early season winning streak of nine consecutive games, but playing continued to show the quality of the earlier competitions. With little over half their games played, the Buff had virtually assured itself a place in the annual Southern Conference Championship Playoff at Durham in March.

Too much credit cannot be bestowed upon Coach Zahn. Presented with nine candidates of almost equal ability at the beginning of the campaign, he has succeeded in molding together a highly successful aggregation. To accomplish this task he was recently appointed a full-time member of the faculty. His primary object now is to recapture the Conference crown last worn by George Washington University in 1943.

Captain Bill Cantwell returned from last years team with even better results. As the highest scorer in the Conference, he accumulated an average of 11.4 points for his first eleven games. Ray "Ace" Adler, a freshman from Brooklyn, capably filled the vital center position and gave promise of attaining even greater heights. Then, there was the ever dependable Maynard Haithcock, whose late field goal pulled the second Virginia contest out of the fire. John Moffatt returned from the armed forces to hold down the other forward position, while Len Small, Dave Shapiro, Howie Hoffman, Phil McNiff, and Art Cerra have alternated at the guard positions. The record of the team and its members this season retained the usual creditable appearance of which the University is proud.

Coach DeAngelo's baseball team experienced difficulties besetting all first year organizations as they compiled a record of four wins and ten defeats. Two very close games were dropped to Georgetown, while possibly the two finest games were won by Maryland U.

Many outstanding local products saw first year service with the Colonials, among whom were Bernie Good, who finished the season with a .325 batting average, Bunny Citrenbaum, and Don Druckenmiller.

This year's diamond squad was under the direction of Coach "Otts" Zahn. With the entire squad of first year men returning for another campaign, Zahn was able to field a team destined to be more successful than that which represented the University last year.

MINOR SPORTS

The existing minor sports teams at the University are tennis, golf, rifle, yachting and swimming. Widely varied was the fate of each this year.

George Washington's predominantly freshman tennis team compiled a first season record of two victories and five defeats. Coach Bill Shreve led last year's team to victory over American University and Wilson Teachers College while dropping decisions to other local collegiate squads. With last year's entire team returning for another season, and with an infinitely longer and more difficult schedule, high hopes are envisioned for this year's aggregation to compile an impressive record. Teams slated to be played this year include Georgetown, Maryland, American, Catholic, and Virginia Universities as well as regular Southern Conference Competition.

Dave Wartman and Bill Brownrigg led the Colonial golf squad to an impressive record of seven wins and two defeats last season. Competing for the most part on local greens, with most of the schools represented (that were in this area) these two veterans shot consistently in the lower 70's and were thus able to win most of their matches. During the season Captain Bill Griffin often played in number one position. Physical education head William Myers, though losing Brownrigg from this year's competition, has great hopes of copping the Conference championship. Eight of the twelve scheduled matches are Southern Conference tournament games. Primarily competition will be afforded by Duke and Virginia Universities.

The rifle team under the direction of Coach Frank Parsons competed in a series of intercollegiate matches. The highest honors of last season came in the sectional tournament of the National Intercollegiate Rifle Championship when the team took third place. Further rifle matches have been planned for this spring season.

Skipper Eric Nordholm and Pat Granger were Colonial yachters' leaders in a most successful season. Competing in inter-collegiate sports, they represented one of the few winning Colonial sport entries. The yachting team captured first place in the Frostbite Regatta, sponsored by Georgetown, Maryland and The George Washington Universities, by winning over many top Eastern competitors. The Marvin Gorman Byrd Trophy was the treasured fruit of this victory. Prior to this tournament, the helmsmen captured third place in the Schell Regatta staged on the Charles River Basin in Massachusetts. The George Washington representatives in the trim "Tempests" were able to establish an impressive name for themselves in intercollegiate yachting and give promise of outstanding competition in the future. Though some former members may not compete next time, the team should nevertheless be able to maintain its present position in this section.

Hipsley entered the District of Columbia Invitational Intercollegiate Championships last spring. In competing with other colleges the University finished in second place. Outstanding swimmers of this season were Mercante and Peters. Matches for this spring have been planned with Southern Conference teams as well as with neighboring colleges.

In spite of less student support, the minor sports have climbed in importance as leaders in intercollegiate competitions. These sports have expanded greatly in the last few years and are continuing this advance as a greater part of the University's sports program.

Intramural sports emerged during the past year as the primary sport activity on campus. Under the able direction of Joe Krupa, intramural programs satisfied the athletic needs of some six hundred students on a full time basis, and took care of many additional parttime performers. In order to carry out this program successfully Krupa divided the intramural project into two groups, namely, the Independent group, and the Fraternity League. This plan enabled all students desiring to participate to do so with a minimum of confusion.

In the closely contested Fraternity Football League after a see-saw battle, Kappa Alpha finally emerged the victor. Second place went to Phi Sigma Kappa which suffered a defeat in the championship game after winning the regular season title. Theta Delta Chi copped the 1947 baseball championship as they led the league down to the final wire. Pete Labukas once again sparked the Theta Delts to the championships.

The Independent League football Championship was won by the Dodgers, who defeated the Draper Hall Bulldogs. This feat marked the sec-

An added feature of this intramural program was the creation of an All Navy League for the benefit of the naval trainees on campus. Though limited by number to four teams, the Navy League showed spectators the fine brand of competition displayed in the entire intramural project. Navy "A" became the Basketball champions when they defeated the Commandos in the finale.

The lack of adequate gymnasium facilities meant that not all desiring to participate in athletics were able to do so. In order to complete this year's scheduling, various contests had to be played late at night and on Sundays. Any large scale development of the intramural program must by necessity wait upon the erection of the new field house, expected to be built in the near future.

Students participating in Intramural sports owe a large debt of gratitude to Professor Krupa, who, while serving on the regular faculty, found time to actively direct the entire intramural program.

"Everybody once around the field"—tennis, soccer, and hockey players were off. The thud of an arrow hitting the target, the swish of the golf club—these became familiar sounds. Yes! the fall sports program was under way under the direction of Miss Atwell.

Rain was a steady customer, and often made it necessary for sport classes to move indoors. It was during such times as these that Miss Tate and her golf assistants laid out the putting range—and themselves—for the golf enthusiast to get frustrated over with each successive shot.

With winter, classes moved into the tin tabernacle. Badminton racquets came out and birds flew all over the place—with more than one roosting on the rafters.

Basketball started in typical Lawrence fashion—running forward and backward around the gym. Next day all the hoop stars were so stiff and sore that for Building C or D classes they "elevated" up by way of the library.

The stiff muscles were well worth it and the Dance, Modern and Square, outlasted all the other sports. These activities went on the year round, with the largest number of participants in the winter. "Sa-wing yer own an' promenade" was a much heard call, since, besides the Square Dancing class, the Square Dance Club and the WRA square dances had huge turnouts.

The sphere whizzed past the batter and into the catcher's mitt. The long-time favorite, softball, got off to a new season.

Sailing, sponsored by Miss Prentiss, began its career as a major sport in the department.

In the pool, Oquassa gave, as a grand finale, its annual water show. Even sports this year have taken on a "New Look."

Sigma Chi was founded in 1855 at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and Epsilon Chapter was installed here nine years later.

With Dick (White Gloves) Markoff, IFC Social Chairman, leading the parade, Sigma Chi this year held many enjoyable social events. The Pirates Ball, Greenwich Village, Alumni Stag Party, and the outstanding social event of every year, the Sweetheart Ball, were the highlights. Six sorority exchange dances and the weekly Saturday night parties complete the picture.

With improvements always in mind, the Sigs worked hard on their house at 2004 G Street. The most notable achievement of the year was the opening of the kitchen and dining room for lunches and dinners. The dining room was usually filled to capacity with a throng of brothers, their dates, and friends.

Sports were one of the fraternity's major interests. Teams were entered in all competitions, and Sigma Chi ranked high in most of the final standings. Lew Russell added another cup to the trophy case by winning the intramural golf championship.

Thus in all fields Epsilon Chapter upheld its long tradition of leadership and excellence.

Early in the fall, the Kappa Sigs acquired their new house at 1714 19th Street. Under the guiding hands of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Gooding, the brothers and their sisters, mothers, wives, and sweethearts all pitched in to do a marvelous job of redecorating. They also got the jump on other campus organizations by starting early on plans for a television set.

Back from the usual active summer, the Kappa Sigs continued to uphold their reputation for out-of-this-world parties. Memorable exchange parties were intermixed with their famous picnics, the big Christmas and New Year's Eve parties, and the lavish Spring Formal.

In sports, the Kappa Sigs began by winning the interfraternity football championship and continued their good showing all year. The outstanding athlete, shining in all sports, was Paul Jack, ably supported by Scotty Garrigan, Sam Farell, and Bud McLendon.

All the brothers took an active part in campus and chapter life, and together made it another big year for the Kappa Sigs.

The year 1947-48 was another highly successful one for the crimson and old gold of Kappa Alpha. Since its installation on campus in 1894, Alpha Nu Chapter has held its place among the leaders in all aspects of University life.

Three balls highlighted the social season. The Tacky Ball given by the pledge class for the actives was rivaled by the Pledge Christmas Formal, footed by the actives. The spring spectacle was a Dixie Ball at which brothers and their guests blossomed out in the sideburn-and-cutlass decorum of the 1860's. In addition, the KA house at 1523 New Hampshire Avenue was the scene of many parties during the year.

The Chapter was also busy in other fields. Strong teams represented the fraternity in year-round athletics. 1947-48 also marked the birth of a new chapter publication, aimed especially at alumni readers.

Underlying these activities was a steady emphasis on scholarship. Study halls were maintained, and informal tutoring also contributed to a high over-all scholastic standing.

Theta Delta Chi was founded for the purpose of bettering the social, moral, and intellectual character of its members. It provides an environment conducive to the development of personality, leadership, and responsibility. 1947 was the fraternity's 100th anniversary.

Chi Deuteron Charge at The George Washington University is striving to uphold these ideals both by its well-rounded program and by its selection of members. The steady emphasis on study and intellectual development culminates in the annual J. B. Martin Memorial Award, presented to the active member who maintains the highest scholastic average.

In addition to being represented on several University teams this year, Theta Delta Chi played a major role in interfraternity and intramural competition, with almost every member participating in some sport.

Commencing with rush parties in the fall, the fraternity's social life was highlighted by exchange dances, picnics, hayrides, and costume parties. The big event of the year was the annual Dream Girl Ball.

Outstanding campus leaders of the Theta Delts were Pete Labukas and Tom Hurst, who were listed in Who's Who.

Biggest event of the Phi Sig social year was the housewarming, open to the entire University, celebrating the acquisition of a new chapter house.

Rivalling the success of housewarming in our memories are such dances as the Christmas Ball, the Carnation Formal, and the annual Farmers' Day Ball, where vivacious Marjorie Tichenor was chosen "Farmer's Daughter." Beauty Queen for the year was charming Lynn Matteson, selected as "Moonlight Girl" at the Carnation Ball. Before departing for the summer vacation, Phi Sigs recuperated from the strains of finals by loafing, canoeing, and swimming with the Delta Zetas at Chopawamsic Park in Virginia.

Among Phi Sigs especially active on campus were Lew Hoffacker, Program Director of the Student Council and member of ODK; Stan Williams, Sophomore President; and Eric Nordholm, commodore of the Sailing Association. Scholastic honors went to Clarke Davison, who was initiated into Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi. Gate and Key extended membership to Bud Abbott, John Gray, and Lew Hoffacker. *

It was a successful year for Lambda Chapter and one to remember pleasantly for a long time to come.

Another year—Largest yet, with the veterans coming back by the score. . . . Rushing—Wild West parties, Hobo Hops, Dinner with the Alums . . . Pledging—Among many talented SAE's-to-be, one Stewart Gordon, budding Concert pianist . . . Fall initiation . . . Social stirrings—The Ebony Room of Club 1824 becomes the Polynesian Room, with murals by two talented Kappas. The Tap Room of the Lucky Strike won't be forgotten either . . . Activities—Bill Spangler and Howie Williams adding a big share of that moral massacre of Georgetown's football Hoyas. Student Council, Homecoming, Hatchet, professional fraternities, religious clubs, and varsity sports find SAE's in their midst . . . Honors—Saluting Larry Woodward, Who's Who; Dick Generelly, president, Jim Day, and Larry Woodward, ODK . . . More whirls—Exchange parties with the sorores and fratres. And of course the Bal Boheme. Mardi Gras theme. All this and a queen too—Julie Halloran, also our candidate for the Frostbite Regatta throne . . . Later scoops—SAE fields not one but two basketball teams. New Year's Eve at the House, or How Memories Are Made . . . Spring—A fine performance in the IFC Sing. More Sports. The Spring Formal, where all those weddings get started . . . And the grand finale—Ocean City.

Phi Alpha's new house at 2011 H Street was a center of gaiety this year as Alpha Chapter kept it filled with parties for Georgetown and Maryland chapters and open house for other campus organizations.

Socially, the fraternity got off to a fast start with their Founder's Day stag banquet in October, at which Dean Elmer Kayser was the featured speaker. Highlights later in the year were the annual Rose Ball, given in conjunction with Phi Sigma Sigma, and the Alpha-Gamma Reunion in April.

Many Phi Alphans were prominent in campus affairs. Julius Piver, vice-president of the Senior Class and Inter-Faith representative; Bernard Ehrlich, president of Hillel; J. Joseph Wolf, vice-president of Phi Eta Sigma; and Adolph Kiczales, secretary of the Interfraternity Pledge Council, stood out on the University scene.

Throughout the year Phi Alpha stressed its goal of increasing the scholastic and social welfare of its members and endeavored to work more closely with the University. With over 50 active members and 21 pledges, Alpha Chapter looks enthusiastically to the future.

Sigma Nu was founded in 1865, and Delta Pi Chapter was installed on the George Washington University campus in 1915. The chapter this year completely redecorated its new house at 1622 21st Street. Members also worked on transforming their carriage house into a setting for future parties.

A round of exchange parties was held with other fraternities during the fall semester, and in the spring a series of sorority exchange dances took place. The gala Christmas Formal was held in the Silver Spring Armory, while the social highlight of the second semester was the Frontier Ball, a Western-style masquerade in February.

Sigma Nu's were prominent in campus affairs. The fraternity was well represented on the Student Council by Freshman Director Jim Speaks and Advocate Bill Wendt, who at the same time presided over Delta Phi Epsilon. Chet Byrns was elected president of the Senior Class, and Jack Voneiff became business manager of the Hatchet.

Rounding out the year's activity for Sigma Nu was the usual ambitious sports program, which completed the fraternity's balance of study and good times.

The prime purpose of Tau Kappa Epsilon, founded in 1899, is the mental and social development of its members. Alpha Chapter was installed in 1935 to promote the realization of these ideals on the George Washington University campus.

The Chapter's long search for a home ended successfully this year when it moved into a house at 2003 Columbia Road. Renovation and improvements followed, until their new abode was fully equipped for a busy season.

The outstanding social event of the fall semester for the Tekes came in December, when they held their lavish Christmas Ball. When the brothers returned to school after the holidays, they started the new year right with the Founders' Day Banquet. The highlight of the spring season was the gala Triangle Ball held in May, and in June the Alumni Round-up closed the year.

Study and sports filled out the chapter's program.

In the years to come, Alpha Pi expects to grow in numbers and in ability through a continuation of its policy of supplementing academic work with carefully chosen extra-curricular influences.

Delta Alpha chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha began the college year with complete redecorating of the chapter house. Included in the new scheme were the wall murals and the "Aquabar," where live gold fish swim in an aquarium built into the bar.

Highlight of the chapter's social season was its Shipwreck Ball, to which all Greeks from this campus as well as others in the area were invited. Amid the thatched roofs and palm trees of a transformed Hyattsville Armory, Louise Whiting was crowned Shipwreck Queen, to reign over a thousand subjects—shipwrecked survivors and island natives.

The Pi KA's celebrated at Christmas time with a party for the children of all alumni in the Washington area and the New Year's Eve fling was as gay and noisy as ever. The usual round of Saturday-and-other-night parties carried the chapter into the spring, when the annual Dream Girl dance took place.

Outstanding members in the fields of scholarship and extracurricular activities showed that the chapter combined with pleasure the responsibilities of college life.

D. C. Alpha Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon was chartered on the George Washington University campus in 1909—eighth in order of founding on campus and thirty-third chapter established by the national fraternity.

Sigma Phi Epsilon is a social fraternity fostering friendship, participation in school activities, and scholastic achievement. It was reactivated at the University in the fall of 1946, having been completely disbanded during the war.

The first step in the Sig Eps return to active status was a complete transformation and renovation of the chapter's quarters at 808 22nd Street. At the same time an athletic program got under way, with teams taking the field in all intramural sports.

Social life began immediately with a varied schedule of weekly parties. In November, an address by founder Carter Jenkins highlighted the National Founders' Day Banquet. A Queen of Hearts was crowned at the traditional Heart Ball, which was revived in February as the year's outstanding event. The Local Founders' Day Banquet followed in March, and the Sig Ep Spring Formal brought the year to a brilliant close.

Acacia Fraternity looks back over the preceding academic year with pride in its accomplishments. In addition to its sponsorship of a successful rush program and social calendar, it has found a good answer to the notorious Washington housing shortage, thereby making its recent return to the University campus complete.

Acacia Fraternity at The George Washington University, and at other universities throughout the country, has been primarily concerned in recent years with providing diversified social life and training for all of its members, as well as good quarters and adequate meals, at a price level within the reach of veterans' limited subsistence payments.

We of Acacia hope and believe that this program, as outlined here, should enable our members as educated men to take an active role in the affairs of any community in which they may reside in years to come.

The wandering Greeks, representing national fraternities which do not have chapters on campus, experienced a well-filled year of parties, intrafraternity activities, and a fair share of housecleaning and remodeling.

In the fall, the stray Greeks had a better than average season in football. Other sports in which they participated were bowling, volley ball, and softball.

To start the season, the Argonauts and SPE's gave their annual all-Greek open house, a very gala affair. The usual weekend parties were given during the Christmas holidays and between semesters.

To celebrate the second anniversary of the organization, the annual brawl was thrown. The rest of the year was devoted to extending fraternity friendships and developing spirit on campus.

A small group of us reactivated Alpha Epsilon Pi at a banquet on April 13, 1947, and shortly thereafter Kappa Deuteron Chapter returned to the George Washington campus. Although we have not yet obtained a house, during our first year we became a closely organized group and launched a program of activities. Our meetings were held at Hillel House this year.

Among our first undertakings was participation in sports, from ping pong to football. Our social arrangements, under the direction of Irving Eisen, provided plenty of entertainment, topped by the gala New Years' Eve party.

Heading the list of Alpha Epsilon Pi's plans for the future is the acquisition of a house, toward which we are bending all our present efforts. In addition to this project, under the leadership of our popular president, Harvey Jacobs, we expect to become active participants in all IFC and University programs.

The school year 1947-48 witnessed the re-opening of Gamma Eta Chapter of Delta Tau Delta after a period of inactivity during the war. For several weeks at the beginning of the fall semester, Delta alumni, actives, and pledges were busy renovating and redecorating the new Shelter at 731 22nd Street.

On November 21, 1947, a formal initiation ceremony was held at the Roosevelt Hotel, followed by a dinner at which the principal speaker was G. Herbert McCracken, national president of Delta Tau Delta. Among the distinguished guests at this dinner were four charter members of Gamma Eta Chapter.

This year marked the 88th year of Delta Tau Delta, as well as the 44th anniversary of Gamma Eta Chapter, which was installed at Columbian College in 1903. A Founder's Day Banquet in April for all Deltas in the Washington area highlighted a successful season on campus.

Once again the Pi Phi's have enjoyed a very successful year.

The house party last spring got the ball rolling. All concerned had a terrific time, and all agreed that Ocean City was the answer to post-exam DT's.

The first big event of the school year was the Pledge Formal at the Wardman Park. Homecoming followed, with the Pi Phi's coming in second in the float contest.

D. C. Alpha Chapter played Santa to the orphans this year. No one knew whether the children or the Pi Phi's had the better time.

Many members ran up activities points throughout the school year. Sally Dessez was on top with Mortar Board, while Winnie McGowan, Adeline Andrews, Peggy Mendenhall, Ann Bradshaw, and Sue Lovewell were pledged to Tassels. Betty Swanson and Peggy Babcock turned their efforts to the CHERRY TREE, and the SURVEYOR kept Marilyn Brownfield and Adeline Andrews busy. Jackie Perry, Winnie McGowan, and Molly Cochrane worked on the Women's Recreation Association, and Chachi Hall became a University Player by way of "The Fan."

Summer brought the Chi O's a gay formal along with talk of their rendition of "Baia" which won second place in the Pan-hellenic Sing, and the thrill when Manny was chosen "Sweetheart of Theta Delta Chi."

Back at school again, we emerged from a busy rush season with nineteen pledges who presented a hilarious Goat Show skit entitled "There's Moonshine Still." Everyone had fun working on the Chi O float for Homecoming and cheering for the lovely queen candidate, blonde Bev Rohrs. In December the social season was at its height as Chi O entertained fraternity men at an open house in the Annapolis Hotel and held the pledge dance at the Wardman Park. Eloise Spearman, student officer of Phi Beta Kappa, and Polly Nason, Tassels member, led in the attempt to keep second place in scholarship among sorority women.

The year '47-'48 was a very gay one for the Sigma K's. It started with the big thrill of the summer, that long and memorable week at Calawassi Beach, spent swimming, boating, dancing, and sleeping on the warm sand.

Then, after a successful rush season, we settled down to regular campus life. On the fun side, we enjoyed many exchange dances, teas, open houses, hayrides, and our annual Christmas dance. But work and play must go together, so the Sigma K's redecorated after the painting of their apartment this summer.

In campus competitions, the sorority did well. At the May Day festival last spring, our Spook House took second prize, and in the fall we were proud of the pledges who presented another prize-winning Goat Show, "The Night Before Christmas."

Individual honors also came to Sigma Kappas. Three girls made Who's Who—Kitty Killeen, cheerleader and Dance Production Group artist; Dottie Baines, Student Council publicity director; and Mary Olga Longley, CHERRY TREE editor. After vacationing gaily from Maine to Mexico and from California to Cuba, traveling by yacht, plane, and pony express, the Phi Mu's poured into Washington, where picnics, parties, and seashore weekends passed the time until the fall semester.

Heavenly autumn days ushered in a hectic social season. Exchange dances, football games, and fall parties were climaxed by the Paddle Dance. The pledge class presented "Grandmother's Great Grievance" to an enthusiastic Goat Show audience and won honorable mention in the poster contest.

Imbued with Christmas spirit, initiates, actives, and pledges donated toys for needy children and caroled to hospital patients. The Christmas party and Christmas dance paved the way for the New Year.

Escaping with relief from January's cold and final exams, we plunged into the traditional St. Patrick's Day Open House, honoring the campus sororities. The Spring Ball was a gala finale to a busy social year.

Then May brought convocation, graduation for some, and for all the end of another year of fun and fellowship.

The roof of Sorority Hall has had trouble staying on because of the Delta Zetas, who have been packing their rooms full of folks, fun, and festivities.

Summer vacations got off to a swimming start last year with beach parties at Chopawamsic and Ocean City. In August the DZ's watched as Doe Brenneman, Marion Fisher, and Mary Laurie Cobb tripped down the aisle. Seven sisters became gorgeous mermaids dated 1000 DZ and brought back one of the cups from the Homecoming parade. A real harvest moon shown down on the new pledges during the Harvest Moon Ball in November, and then Santa and Jack Frost combined forces on a Christmas Party. For consolation after exams there was a Flunk and Forget Party. In the spring came hayrides, picnics, and the Rose Ball honoring the second semester pledges.

This completes 25 years on campus for Alpha Delta Chapter of Delta Zeta. A great many honors have gone to the sorority, and the zip of the present members promises a colorful future.

ALPHA DELTA PI

The members of Alpha Pi Chapter spent most of the year in a mad whirl of holiday parties, exchange dances, slumber parties, and buffets. The beach party at Ocean City was eclipsed only by the lavish Pledge Formal at Hotel 2400.

Instead of exchanging presents at Christmas, the A D Pi's sent CARE packages to Europe. The chapter also adopted and supported a boy in war-torn Malta as a special project.

The Cherry Blossom Cup became a permanent acquisition as a result of three consecutive wins, and the girls also won the Cherry Tree subscription contest. All members worked hard in preparation for the Panhellenic Sing in order to outdo their third-place performance of last year.

Two leaders in activities were listed in Who's Who: Nancy Hanck, senior secretary-treasurer, Pacemaker Hatchet editor, and Mortar Board member; and Eugenie Lee, president of Delphi and Phi Pi Epsilon, and scholarship chairman of Panhellenic. The A D Pi beauty tradition was upheld by May Queen Marme Winterfield and Homecoming Queen finalist Louise Whiting.

In all fields of action, it was a banner year for A D Pi!

The Kappa Deltas opened their 25th anniversary on campus and their 50th national anniversary by winning first place in the Homecoming float contest. Cinderella in her pumpkin coach drawn by two white horses rode to victory over her rivals in Griffith Stadium at G.W.'s Homecoming game with V.P.I.

On November 21st, a Silver Anniversary Tea was given by the Washington Alumnae Chapter and Sigma Mu Chapter. Betty Walter, Sigma Mu President, Olga Octenhagen, past National President, Sallie Burns Ross, Alpha Province President, and Virginia Willis and Alma Shugrue, charter members of Sigma Mu, served as honored guests in the receiving line, greeting members of the faculty and other friends.

In addition to Kappa Delta's annual Christmas Party for underprivileged children, chapter members served on the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Booth in the Mayflower Hotel.

Among KD's prominent members about campus were: Betty Keeler, President of Panhel; Florence Hager, President of the Lutheran Student Association; Donna Hill, President of the Symphony Club; and Beverly Barrett, Vice-President of the Foreign Affairs Club.

Phi Sigma Sigma's biggest news of the year was the decoration of a shiny new apartment. With paint in our hair and Dali-esque decorating plans, we were once more the proud possessors of a house.

Still most of the members of Kappa Chapter managed to keep a finger in the activity pie, holding down positions in honor societies, class governments, and campus social organizations. Socially, they glittered at such functions as the Founders' Day Dance, the Installation Dance, and the Rose Ball given in conjunction with Phi Alpha.

The very popular annual Carnival-Dance was held in the tin tabernacle, and the proceeds were contributed to the University Hospital Fund. We also won first place in both the Community Chest campaign and the United Jewish Appeal drive sponsored by Hillel.

This year's pledge class proved to be one of our most talented. Its members brought home the choicest plum of the year with their skit on "National Party Convention—Pre-Election," whose witty parodies took the first prize cup in the annual all-sorority Goat Show.

"To intensify friendship, to promote happiness among its members and in every way to create such sentiments, to perform such deeds and to mold such opinions as will conduce to the building up of a purer and nobler womanhood in the world." This is the purpose of Zeta Tau Alpha.

Our program for the past year included a Founder's Day Banquet in October, a Tavern Party (open house for fraternities) in November, and so on around the calendar, with a Pledge Dance, a Christmas Party, teas, and picnics, keeping us on the go. This summer we hope to spend another week at Rehoboth Beach, and we are looking forward to an exciting time at Virginia Beach in June when Zeta Tau Alpha holds its Golden Anniversary Convention.

Beta Alpha Chapter members were active in school affairs, and many of us held important offices in campus organizations. Our project for the year was becoming 100% enrolled in the Zeta Tau Alpha Life Membership, and we also worked hard on drives for the Community Chest, Red Cross, and other welfare agencies. For all of us 1947-48 was another red-letter year.

The golden Kappa key has been much in evidence during the past memory-filled months. Some of the events which the blue and blue contingent will never forget were:

Summer rush functions and open house for fraternities—that long trek back to Foggy Bottom—the addition of twenty grand pledges—twin powerhouses Shirley Smith and Barbara Hanby included in the collegiate Who's Who—Cammy Goldsborough, business manager, and Billie Klapp, ads manager, of the CHERRY TREE—the supersensational pledge formal at Indian Springs Country Club—Sally Barrow and Pat Calloway serving as officers of W.R.A.—"Gas Works U.," our buff 'n' blue Homecoming float—the pledges turning out a first prize Goat Show poster and giving us their laugh-filled version of love in the Paleolithic Age—the Mighty Seven proving their skill by winning the intersorority volley ball tournament—vivacious Julie Halloran crowned queen of the SAE Bal Boheme—housewarming for our newly decorated rooms, with all our mommas and poppas present. . . .

No, never a dull moment as the Kappa chapter at G. W. moves onward!

Down at 2131 G Street, Beta Rho Chapter celebrated its third anniversary on the G.W. campus.

Ever active, the DG's are especially proud of President Sue Berger, also President of Delphi and Mortar Board member.

Last summer a wonderful time was had by all at our annual house party at Ocean City.

Topping the rushing off, we pledged a grand group who did us proud in the Goat Show.

As for social functions, fraternity exchanges, tea dances, picnics, the Christmas Party, and our pledge formal kept us going at a dizzy pace.

Good-looking rooms were the result of the combined redecorating efforts of alums and actives.

Around noon the DG's could be found in the rooms eating sandwiches from Leo's, playing bridge, knitting, planning parties, or comparing notes on the last mid-term.

Marriage brought six of our girls to the altar during the summer and fall.

Most agree that fun, friendship, and festivity made this the best year yet for Delta Gamma.

Anchored firmly, the DG's look forward to an even brighter future.

Simultaneously with the publication in Fraternity Monthly of "Seventy-Seven Wonderful Years in Kappa Alpha Theta," our chapter celebrated its first birthday. In addition to increasing our membership from three to thirty-seven since last fall, Gamma Kappa has added considerably to the splendid achievement record of our national organization.

We take great pride in both our top-notch pledge classes of the past two years, and in the campus honors accorded individual Thetas. Lynn Matteson, our President, was named Princess of Phi Sigma Kappa; the Phi Sigs also chose Margie Tichenor as their "Farmer's Daughter." Betty King, a star of last year's Freshman Follies, was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Sophomore Class, in addition to joining Tassels' ranks. Sally Ann Evans was also tapped for Tassels and became chairman of that organization. Virginia Warren is Registrar of Big Sisters, Jean Oswald was tapped by Pi Gamma Mu, and Janet Glisson carried off runner-up honors in the 1947 Homecoming Queen contest.

Always looking ahead, Theta will continue her pursuit of the highest social and intellectual goals.

To all our friends,

We would like to express to the student body at The George Washington University our appreciation for their cooperation in the preparation of the photographic part of "The 1948 Cherry Tree." In spite of some mishaps and long hours we feel we have acquired some valued friendships and the satisfaction of doing a job on time.

Particularly we would express our congratulations to the editors and staff. They have proven to be competent journalists as well as the kind of people with whom we like to do business.

Yours sincerely,

INTERNATIONAL BREWERS' LEAGUE

Delta Theta Chapter of Delta Theta began the year with a thrilling bridge party and sing, held in the chapter garage at 806 22nd Street. The event celebrated the complete renovation of their quarters, which included the cutting of doors and windows.

The traditional Beer Party was held in November, and featured the complete collapse of several brothers. This was followed in December by the annual Christmas Party, and in January by the annual New Year's Party, at which the custom was inaugurated of celebrating the holiday on New Year's Day. Climaxing the highlights of the Delta social season was the traditional annual Delta Spring Formal, held at Hotel 3900. Three brothers were crowned during the waning hours of the evening.

In the field of sports, the chapter put several teams on the field, most of which finished the season.

Scholastically, the fraternity maintained its usual standing. Despite this, Delta Theta continued to emphasize scholarship at all times.

The addition of a pledge class of 28 did nothing to freshen the air, and all agreed that the year was as dismal as they ever hoped to see. Delta Theta looked upward to the future from a new low.
